

THE UNIVERSITY OF WAIKATO

Professor of Demography National Institute of Demographic and Economic Analysis (NIDEA) Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences

The National Institute of Demographic and Economic Analysis (NIDEA) is the only social sciences research institute in a New Zealand university that is focussed specifically on demography, population economics and population geography. NIDEA researchers are well known nationally and internationally for their research excellence.

With a research and scholarship record of sustained excellence and a recognised contribution to the academic field at a national and international level, you will demonstrate ability to provide a major contribution to the graduate and postgraduate programme, including supervision at all levels, and coordinate the teaching programme within NIDEA.

Your fields of research may include substantive, conceptual, methodological and empirical issues in one or more of demography, population economics, population geography, population forecasting and demographic micro-simulation techniques.

An understanding of related policy issues and a strong background in the use of quantitative techniques are highly desirable.

You will be PhD qualified in a relevant discipline, preferably demography, with an excellent research record and profile and sufficiently well advanced in your career and scholarship to be considered for appointment at professorial level.

The current salary range for Professors begins at NZ$130,131 per year and will be dependent on qualifications, skills and experience.

Closing Date: 26 June 2015

Vacancy number: 350096
