The Town and the Country in European Russia: One Hundred Years of Change

Editors: T. Nefedova, P. Polian, A. Treivish

ANNOTATION-ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The book "The Town and the Country in European Russia" written by V. P. Semenov-Tian-Shanskii and published in 1910 summed up the results of rural and urban settling on the eve of the 20th century. One hundred years have passed.

This book attempts to follow and understand the urban and rural development trends of the last 100 years and to sum them up, this time on the eve of the 21st century. The item implies not only collation and comparison of data concerning the early and late century, and not only verification of information and forecasting suggested by V. P. Semenov-Tian-Shanskii, but it also requires a radical revision of the very concept and method which would correspond to changing criteria. Empirically, the book examines major demo-geographical results of the century that has gone, stages of population change, urbanisation and industrialisation, stability of settlement network, preconditions and results of urban economic development, rural continuity and change, expansion of urbanities into the countryside and rustic features inherited by cities, and political and religious specifics of the town and country. Numerous maps, tables and statistical appendices allow to compare the state of urban and rural settlements in the early and late century.

The book is addressed to researches, teachers, students, politicians and decision makers.

CONTENTS

About this book (P. Polian, T. Nefedova, and A. Treivish)

Part one. THE COUNTRY AND THE TOWN: COMMON DESTINIES

1.1. "The Town and the Country in European Russia" by V.P.Semenov-Tian-Shanskii in the Eyes of Contemporaries and Progeny
(P. Polian)

1.2. The twentieth century: by the way of demographic catastrophes
(P. Polian)

Russia: territorial limits. Russia's population dynamics and demographic catastrophes: a division into periods. Early in the century: the Stolypin reform and emigration boom. The first demographic catastrophe (1915–1922). The second demographic catastrophe (1930–1936). The third demographic catastrophe (1941–1948).
